

THE WHIG STANDARD.

"Flag of the free! thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph high."

FOR PRESIDENT,
HENRY CLAY,
OF KENTUCKY.

WASHINGTON.

THURSDAY EVENING, NOV. 16, 1843.

Having had more calls for the paper of yesterday, containing the list of members of the approaching Congress than we could answer, we have republished the names to-day. It is not possible for us to be accurate in registering all the Calhoun men; in fact, we have omitted to mark several whom we strongly suspect of this heresy.

MR. CLAY AND THE TARIFF.

The Richmond Enquirer pretends to affirm that Mr. CLAY is "trimming down his Tariff principles to propitiate the South." We have given Mr. Ritchie more credit for skill and sagacity as a political editor than he deserves. The truth is, the two great band-dogs of Locofocoism, the Globe and Enquirer, are hard run for political game. They have nothing to say about the land distribution, because they see that this measure is gaining popularity. To charge Mr. CLAY with a leaning to abolition, since his reply to Mr. Mendenhall, would be worse than folly. To raise a mad-dog cry about a National Bank, would be to magnify the consequence of Mr. Tyler. The one term principle is directly in the teeth of their practice, yet they dare not condemn it by argument. There seems to be nothing left but the Tariff; and here, losing sight of the rule adopted by all skilful advocates, they are foolish enough to direct attention to a point which is at the same time the weakest for them, and the strongest for their adversary. HENRY CLAY a trimmer! HENRY CLAY non-committal! He, too, a "northern man with southern principles!"

The Globe and Enquirer are waxing old, and getting in their dotage.

THE CONTEST OF '44.

The game's afoot. From all parts of the country there come up the most satisfactory indications that the Whigs are following their spirit, and are determined to make the best use of the wisdom they acquired in the last campaign. The CLAY CLUBS are numerous, active, and resolute. Having wasted no efforts in elections not vital to their ultimate success, they are prepared to give their whole strength to the utter prostration of Locofocoism in the great one that is drawing near. Mr. Van Buren heard of their "sober second thoughts" in a whisper in 1840, compared with the voice of thunder in which they will be revealed, to the twice condemned ex-President, in 1844.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.

We have seen one or two of the Boston papers. The weather was pleasant, and the election conducted with spirit and decorum.

In Boston the vote stood thus: Briggs 6615, Morton 4212, scattering 439. Last year the vote stood as follows: Davis 5839, Morton 4612, scattering 376.

We have before us a list of twenty-one towns in the vicinity of Boston, in nearly all of which the Whig vote is increased, and that of their opponents reduced from last year.

Michigan Election.—Barry, the Locofoco Governor, has been elected by a diminished majority. The Whigs have gained 360 in Wayne county, 200 of which was in Detroit. Washtenaw and Macomb counties have likewise increased their Whig vote. We have no advices as to the result for members of Congress.

Mississippi.—The election in this State took place last week. There were three tickets in the field for Governor; the regular Whig ticket, headed by George W. Clayton; the regular Locofoco repudiation ticket, with Albert G. Brown as their candidate; and the Democratic bond-paying ticket, represented by Mr. Williams. The Legislature, which is chosen biennially, will have to elect a United States Senator from the 4th of March, 1845, when Mr. Henderson's term expires.

Ohio.—In Ohio, 18 of the 21 Congressional districts gave at the late election a Whig majority of 1,341, where in 1842 the Locofoco majority was 3,443—a Whig gain of 4,787! In the 5th, 8th, and 11th districts, the Whigs had no regular candidates.

Mr. Powers, the sculptor, writes from Florence to his brother in New York, that he has completed his "Eve," and laid aside his chisel, so far as that piece of sculpture is concerned. It is shortly to be shipped to the United States.

ALBEMARLE.—The Whigs of the Centre.—We take especial delight in calling public attention to the highly interesting proceedings of the Whigs of Albemarle. The Whigs of the whole Commonwealth, will catch a new spirit from the animated proceedings of their brethren of that great and intelligent county. The bold and enthusiastic lead, too, of Valentine W. Southall, will infuse ardor and confidence into the bosoms of thousands. There is no man within the limits of Virginia, more worthy, in all respects, of marshalling the liberty-loving Whigs of the Old Dominion, for the great conflict. With a weight of moral character unsurpassed, he unites abilities which would do honor to any cause. A gentleman of spotless integrity—a politician without one selfish aspiration—a Virginian in all his feelings, and all his interests, he has a right to appeal to patriots and Virginians—and he is one whose appeals will not be disregarded.

We confess our heartfelt satisfaction, at witnessing the noble ardor with which Mr. Southall opens the campaign—a conduct worthy of him, and of the whole-souled Whigs who did him the distinguished honor of electing him to the Legislature, without being a candidate.—Richmond Whig.

The Loco papers are again trying to produce the impression that the last Whig Congress created the national debt. This trick is something like that of the New York cabmen, who sprinkle the pavements before the theatres at night with a watering pot, in hopes to catch a customer on suspicion of dampness.—Forum.

"THE GREAT BATTLE."—There is no need of minding the matter. The campaign of 1844 will be as trying to some men's souls as was the campaign of 1840.—Columbian Register.

The truth has at last come to the eyesight of the Locofoco journalists. For a long time, we had nothing but insolent and pompous boastings. The people could not be deceived, they said, and the old and nauseous dregs were doled out to the people from day to day, and from week to week, telling them that there was no danger,—that they (these leaders and flatterers) were their only friends, and that Whiggery was prostrated for ever.

But something has occurred to shake this good, easy confidence. We have a different song now-a-days. Instead of the quiet "piping times of peace," in which they flattered themselves they should repose, while Mr. Van Buren was walking back to the mountain from which he fell in 1840, they now are shaking at the prospect of being called into service. Poor men! quivering at the last terrible defeat, which they remember, and anticipating another as signal, in 1844, they become perfect Falstaffs in bravery, and cry out, at last, we must fight. Brace your nerves, and be steady.—Hartford Courier.

J. Washington Tyson has been sworn in as Assistant Postmaster General. The Mercury regrets that the President should lose his unremitting efforts in this city, but promises to redouble its efforts to make up the loss.—Forum.

The Remored Duel.—We had rumors in town yesterday, of a duel between a lieutenant and a midshipman of the navy. There was indeed, a difficulty, and a challenge had passed—but friends interfered, a hostile meeting was prevented, and the affair was amicably arranged.—Phil. Inq.

We were glad to receive a call yesterday from Mr. Erastus Brooks, of the Express, who returned from a rapid European tour, in the unfortunate Sheffield. Mr. B. went abroad in March last, and has been a most diligent traveler. He has traversed England, France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Russia, Poland, Prussia, Austria, Hungary, Italy, and Switzerland, during a period of less than eight months. We regret to learn that in the wreck of the Sheffield, in sight, as it were, of his own home, he has lost his entire baggage, including his manuscripts and collection of curiosities.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Funeral of Col. Trumbull.—The remains of this venerable soldier, statesman, and painter, reached this city on Saturday at noon, from New York. Yesterday afternoon the funeral solemnities took place in the College Chapel, and the remains were subsequently placed, like those of the Patriarch Abraham, in the same tomb with his wife "Sarah."—New Haven Courier.

The elevation of the summits of the Peaks of Otter, in Virginia, is stated by a writer in the Lynchburg Virginian, to be 5,307 feet above the sea. This makes the Peaks the highest point in the Atlantic States south of New Hampshire.—Baltimore American.

Great power of numbers.—If a cent had been put at compound interest at the commencement of the Christian era, it would have amounted at the end of the year 1837 to a sum greater than could be obtained in six millions of globes, each equal to our earth in magnitude, and of solid gold, while the simple interest for the same time would have amounted to a fraction over one dollar.

Singular Group of Connexions.—The line boat Indiana, Capt. Tibbits, left this place a few days since with a large number of passengers on board, mostly one family, consisting of a wife with two husbands (1st and 3d, the 2d having died), three sets of children, and three do of grandchildren. The parties stood in the relation of brothers and half-brothers, sisters and half-sisters, uncles and aunts, cousins and half-cousins, and the parents were mother and fathers, grandmother and grandfathers to the whole. What is still more singular, the wife and the two husbands were on perfect good terms. The first marriage having been annulled by divorce, the parties afterwards became friends, and the whole group were moving to the west together, where they will probably find plenty of room, as "this is a great country."—Cleveland Herald.

A new City of the Dead.—The Cincinnati Atlas says:

Upon one of those beautiful hills that environ and overlook the Queen City on the Kentucky side of the river, and adjacent to the city of Covington, a public cemetery has been laid out under the auspices of the Baptist denomination. The spot could not have been better chosen. The site is high, and the grounds are beautifully picturesque, while the prospect is fine and extensive. It was at the consecration of this spot to the solemn purpose to which it was destined that an address was delivered by Bellamy Storer before a large audience. The occasion was solemn, and the subject well adapted to touch the feeling heart, and excite the mind of the pious man, and the orator was just the man for such a day and such a task.

Mr. Clay and Mr. Van Buren vs. the South.—The reasons which make Mr. Clay so eminently more desirable as a candidate for the South than Mr. Van Buren are so obvious and apparent as to force stern conviction of that fact on the minds of vast numbers not known or recognised as Whigs, and this impression many are unable or are too patriotic to be willing to conceal. Though policy may dictate to forbear, truth will occasionally force its way through all the restraints which it imposes, in a decided and candid avowal of a preference which honesty will not allow them to repress. Among others, the Hamburg (S. C.) Journal (Calhoun Loco) in a late number gives expression to his feelings on this subject in terms which remind us very sensibly of a certain speech we heard delivered in this city last spring. The Journal says:

"We prefer the Whig candidate decidedly to Mr. Van Buren, and, unless we are egregiously mistaken, the good people of the South coincide with us. Not that we are in favor of Mr. Clay, but let us have him in preference to the other. Mr. Clay is a candid man, and what he does comes openly and aboveboard. We know how to take him—he fights fairly; but when we have to march under the banner of a magician, we feel uncomfortable, and wish to take a running start, as the party must be driven back under such a leader. Therefore, we advise the Democratic party to drop Van Buren as early as possible, for he will not do to march with. Calhoun first, Clay next, unless we can start a better man than Van Buren."—Montgomery (Alabama) Journal.

Extensive Wilderness.—It is known to but very few citizens, that there is in the northeastern portion of the State of New York, an almost unexplored wilderness, embracing a territory much larger than the entire State of Massachusetts, and capable, if as thickly settled, of containing more than a million inhabitants. There are in this wilderness about two hundred lakes, of two miles and upwards each in diameter; and some of them fifteen, eighteen, and even twenty miles in length. The Blue Mountain lake is described by Rev. Mr. Todd, as being upwards of eighteen hundred feet above the level of Lake Champlain, and excelling in point of location the beauty of Horicon (better known as Lake George). Near Long lake, in the very heart of the forest, is a little community of fourteen families, who subsist by fishing, hunting, &c., and have lived in comparative ignorance until they were visited a few years since by the eminent divine above named. Besides these, this immense tract of land has never been explored by any, save by hunters and Indians, who have penetrated but a short distance, so far as ascertained. They have in some instances, however, been overtaken by storms, and their sufferings and trials during inclement seasons, together with their hunting exploits, would, in the hands of a proper person, furnish ample material for a very exciting and interesting romance.—Philad. Forum.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

We copy from the Intelligencer of this morning the following article, giving a short account of the services attending the installation of the Rev. JAMES KNOX as pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of this city, and add thereto, that in connexion with these services, a series of meetings has been commenced, and public preaching had on each evening of the week. We are happy to learn that these meetings will be continued for some time, and that the Church will be opened every evening at 7 o'clock, when the pastor will be assisted in his labors by some of his ministerial brethren of this and neighboring cities. The exercises this evening will be conducted by the Rev. WM. T. SPROLE, lately called to the pastorate of the First Church; and from the reputation this gentleman brings with him from his former place of labor, we risk nothing in assuring our readers that they will derive much pleasure and profit from their attendance.

"Messrs. Editors: The Presbytery of the District of Columbia, according to appointment, proceeded last evening to the installation of the Rev. JAMES KNOX, called to the pastoral charge of the Second Presbyterian Church, on New York avenue. I had the pleasure of attending the services on this occasion, and take the liberty of submitting a short account of them, under the hope that it may not be uninteresting to you and your readers. These services, always solemn, interesting, and impressive, were more than usually so on the present occasion, from the circumstances under which they were held. The church, having for a length of time labored under difficulties, trials, and discouragements—frequent changes of its pastors—irregular and uncertain services—have at length succeeded in securing a pastor whose well-earned reputation for zeal, learning, and devoted piety, is the earnest that, under the blessing of Heaven, the dawn of a brighter day is at hand. What tended to increase the interest of the occasion, too, was the presence of so fair a representation from the sister churches, especially from the First and Fourth Presbyterian churches, between whom and this church a great degree of harmony and unanimity of sentiment happily prevails. An eloquent and appropriate sermon, from the words, "For me to live is Christ," was preached by the Rev. J. G. HAMNER, of Baltimore. Rev. JOHN C. SMITH, of this city, presided, and proposed the constitutional questions to the pastor and people. Rev. J. N. DANFORTH, of Alexandria, delivered a charge to the pastor, and was followed, in conclusion, by Mr. HAMNER, in a charge to the people.

"The prosperity of the interests of religion and virtue, it must be admitted, is inseparable from that of the dearest interests of our Republic. In proportion to their spread and growth among the people, may we entertain well-founded hopes of the stability and perpetuity of our institutions. Looking at this subject, then, as patriots, irrespective of the infinite personal advantages to ourselves, we should encourage all institutions that promote these interests. And the citizens of Washington, from the position they occupy in the metropolis of the nation, should feel the responsibility of that position, and regard themselves specially called upon to foster religion and virtue, that their city may be not an unworthy example for the whole country—that it may be the centre of holy and virtuous influences as it is now of political influence and importance.

"It is sincerely to be hoped that the relation just established between Mr. Knox and his people may be of a permanent character, and that this eloquent divine may be gratified with the attendance of multitudes upon his ministry, who shall rejoice in the privilege of receiving the bread of life through his instrumentality."
